BALTIMORE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

This Convention assembles in Baltimore today, and there will be a very large attendance, as delegates have been elected from all parts of the country. All the hotels are crowded with delegates, and the Front Street Theater has been so arranged as to give convenience to all delegates and others in attendance.

A number of Ohio soldiers stationed near by called upon the Ohio delegation last night, and speeches were made by Hon. C. Delano, ex-Governors Todd and Dennison, and others, all of whom spoke of President Lincoln as their choice for the nomination, and the announcement was received with lond cheers.

It appears to be a foregone conclusion that Mr. Lincoln will be nominated for the re-election, and the only contest appears for the Vice Presidency. On this subject a correspondent of a cotemporary says:

"The interest appears to center around the Vice Presidency. The friends of General Cameron are here in large numbers, and have been exceedingly busy in urging the claims of that statesman. It was thought that the delegation from Ohio would favor his nomination. We understand that no decision has been reached by the delegates from that State. If Ohio sustains General Cameron, his name will be presented; if not, it is hardly possible that his friends will place his name before the con-vention merely for the purpose of obtaining the complimentary vote of Pennsylvania. Governor Johnson, of Tennessee, is possibly the strongest candidate, and it is very certain that if he and Nr. Lincoln were not from the same section of the country, he would be nom-inated on the first ballot. A large body of delegates, particularly from New England, urge the claims of Mr. Hamlin, on the ground that it would be invidious to renominate Mr. Lincoln and not his Vice President. General Dix and Daniel S. Dickinson are urged by friends from New York and some of the Western States. The real contest will be between the delegates of the East, for the Western delegates will nominate whoever the East desire for the Vice Presidency.

"The name of General Butler is mentioned, on the ground that it is policy to please the radicals by nominating a representative radical man.

Ex. Gov. Dennison, of Ohio, is spoken of as chairman of the convention. It will be seen by the following extract that Secretary Chase has authorized the withdrawal of his name as a candidate:

"The following important letter from Senator Sherman, relative to the use of Secretary Chase's name as a candidate, was addressed to the editor of the Cincinnati Volks Blatt, r delegate from the first (Cincinnati) district, of Hamilton county, Ohio. This gentleman has long been known as an advocate of Governor Chase's claims for the Presidency, and, desiring to know whether the Secretary would allow the use of his name before the convention, addressed Senator Sherman a letter on the subject, to which the subjoined is a reply WASHINGTON, June 5, 1864. MY DEAR SIR: I know from repeated conversations with Gov. Chase that he has no desire connected with the action of the convention, except that the manifest will of the people in favor of the renomination of the President be faithfully executed by the convention, and that its declaration of principles be ex-plicit and decided. In this opinion I heartily concur. You are authorized to say this much for either of us to any one who would be aftected by our opinion.

Very truly, yours, JOHN SHERMAN, Hon. M. A. JACOBI."

THE CLEVELAND CONVENTION. Gen. Fremont Accepts the Nomination for the Presidency. On the 3d instant, the committee appointed for the purpose at the Cleveland Convention addressed letters to John C. Fremont and John Cochran, formally announcing their nominations as candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the United States.

Gen. Fremont replied on June 4th, and expressed thanks for the nomination. He considers the position of candidate of the convention an "honorable and difficult one," and says: "Very honorable, because in offering it to me you act in the name of a great number of citizens who seek above all things the good of their country, and who have no sort of selfish interest in view. Very difficult, because in accepting the candidacy you propose to me I am exposed to the reproach of creating a schism in the party with which I have been identified. "Had Mr. Lincoln remained faithful to the principles he was elected to defend, no schism could have been created, and no contest could have been possible. This is not an ordinary election, it is a contest for the right even to have candidates, and not merely as usual for the choice among them. Now, for the first time since '76, the question of constitutional liberty has been brought directly before the people for their consideration and vote. The ordinary rights secured under the constitution and the laws of the country have been violated and extraordinary powers have been usurped by the Executive. It is directly before the people now to say whether or not the principles established by the Revolution are worth maintaining. If, as we have been taught to believe, those guaranties of liberty which made the distinctive value and glory of our country are in truth inviolably sacred, then there must be a protest against the arbitrary violation which had not even the excuse of necessity. The schism is made by those who force the choice between a shameful silence or a protest against wrong. In such considerations originated the Cleveland Convention. It was among its objects to arouse the attention of the people to such facts, and to bring them to realize that while we are saturating southern soil with the best blood of the country, in the name of Liberty, we have really parted with it at home. To-day we have in the country the abuses of a military dictation without its unity of action and vigor of execution. An administration marked at home by disregard of constitutional rights, by its violation of personal liberty and the liberty of the press, and, as a crowning shame, by its abandonment of the right of asylum—a right especially dear to all free na-tions. Abroad, its course has been characterized by a feebleness and want of principle which has misled European powers and driven them to a belief that only commercial interests and personal aims are concerned, and that no great principles are involved in the issue.

The admirable conduct of the people, their readiness to make every sacrifice demanded of them, their forbearance and silence under the suspension of everything that could be suspended, their many acts of heroism and sacrifices, were all rendered fruitless by the incapacity, or, to speak more exactly, by the personal ends for which the war was managed. This incapacity and selfishness naturally produced such results as led the European powers, and, logically enough, to the conviction that the North, with its greatly superior population, its immense resources, and its credit, will never be able to recover the South. Sympathies which should have been with us from the outset of the war were turned against us, and in this way the Administration had done the country a double wrong abroad. It created hostility, or, at best, indifference among those who would have been its friends if the real intentions of the people could have been better known; while at the same time it neglected no occasion for making the most hu-

Against this disastrous condition of affairs the Cleveland Convention was a protest.

The principles which form the basis of its platform have my unqualified and cordial approbation, but I cannot so heartily concur in all the measures which you propose. I do not believe that confiscation extended to the proposition of all rabels is practicable, and if it were erty of all rebels is practicable, and if it were so, I don't think it a measure of sound policy. It is a question belonging to the people them-selves to decide, and is a proper occasion for the exercise of their original and sovereign authority. As a war measure, in the begin-ning of a revolt, which might be quelled by prompt severity, I understand the policy of confiscation; but not as a final measure of reconstruction after the suppression of an in-In the adjustments which are to follow peace, no considerations of vengeance can consistently be admitted.

The object of the war is to make permanently secure the peace and happiness of the whole country, and there was but a single element in the way of its attainment. This element of slavery may be considered practically destroyed in the country, and it needs only your proposed amendment of the Constitution to make its extinction complete.

With this extinction of slavery, the party divisions created by it have also disappeared. And if, in the history of the country, there has ever been a time when the American people, without regard to one or another of the politiwithout regard to one or another of the politily their voice in a matter which involved the safety of the United States, it is assuredly the present time.

If the Convention at Baltimore will nominate any man whose past life justifies a well-grounded confidence in his fidelity to our cardinal principles, there is no reason why there should be any division among the really patriotic men of the country. To any such I shall be most happy to give a cordial and active support. five support.

My own decided preferences is to aid in this way, and not to be myself a candidate. But if Mr. Lincoln should be renominated, as I believe it would be fatal to the country to endorse a policy and renew a power which has cost us the lives of thousands of men, and needlessly put the country on the road to bankruptcy, there will be no alternative but to or ganize against him every element of conscientious opposition with a view to preven: the misfortune of his re-election.

In this contingency I accept the nomination at Cleveland, and as a preliminary step I have resigned my commission in the army. This was a sacrifice it gave me pain to make. But. I had for a long time fruitlessly endeavored to obtain service. I make this sacrifice only to regain liberty of speech, and to leave nothing in the way of discharging to my utmost ability the task you have set for me.

With my earnest and sincere thanks for your expressions of confidence and regard, and for the many honorable terms in which you acquaint me with the actions of the Committee, I am, gentlemen, very respectfully and truly yours,
J. C. FREMONT.

CONGRESSIONAL.

IN THE SENATE yesterday-The consideration of the Tax bill was re-

Oh motion of Mr. Henderson, line from 190 to 212, inclusive, in the schedule of stamp duties, concerning warehouse receipts on merchandise, was stricken out, and the following inserted When the merchandise does not exceed $500 in value, ten cents; where not exceeding $1,000, twenty cents, and twenty cents for every additional thousand."

The bill was then read the third fime, and the yeas and nays called for on its passage, when Mr. Davis rose and addressed the Senate on the finances of the Government at large, and Government indebtedness. He estimated that at the end of the fiscal year the public debt would be thirty-five hundred millions of dollars, with a necessity for the coming year of eleven bundred millions more. The bill was then passed, 23 to 3.

IN THE HOUSE-Mr. Morris reported a bill to repeal the fugiive slave laws. The opposition side of the House resisted action upon the bill at this time; o, by way of compromise, the bill was made he special order for next Monday. Mr. Davis introduced a bill to extend the charter of the Washington and Alexandria

Railroad, which was referred to the Committee for the District of Columbia. OFFICIAL.
